

Rotating an object in spacetime away from the time axis imparts a velocity to it. The greater the rotation the greater the velocity.

