He turns up a shortbow, a light crossbow, a few javelins, 2 quivers of arrows, 2 cases of crossbow bolts, a crate full of mismatched leather armour and a few sacks full of preveserved fruit and vegetables. There is no sign of the equipment that was taken from him last night. Player 12 - Aramis (Bard) : ""anyone seen any keys? or my stuff?"" aramis calls out to everyone Player 8 - Xavier (Bard) : quickly picking up the dead orcs cleaver so a better weapon Xavier turns to the rest of the party ""fighting is not over, we are not sure whats to be found up there, raid the store room, we must be ready for more combat"" i turn to del ""would you stand with me to defend the rest while they re-arm?"" i offer the crowbar to del then turn back to the party ""and if you find a shield and sword in there, i require a stronger defence and fist""	Response 1 Del quickly searches the store room, grabbing whatever weapons he find useful. He then heads back to the others "I found another crossbow and arrows, and a dagger. I have a short bow, but I'll leave it here if someone else wants it. I also found one of my javelins that I was missing."	Does this response make sense? <input type="checkbox"/> Makes sense <input type="checkbox"/> Does not make sense Is this response specific to the given context? <input type="checkbox"/> Specific <input type="checkbox"/> Not specific How interesting is this response on a scale of 10? _____
